Trajectory's approach and methodology to NetSuite implementations and projects focuses on:

This is the approach we take when evaluating, planning and implementing each NetSuite solution we deliver.

For each solution, we establish a balanced understanding of how your organizational goals are best supported by your business processes and the people who drive them. The NetSuite solutions we build create real business value.

With so many technical solutions and providers to choose from, it's essential to find the right balance between business value with your project's critical success factors such as timelines, budget, and the needs of your people, processes and technology.

Methodology for NetSuite Implementations

Trajectory's Approach and Methodology

Each implementation begins with a meaningful evaluation of your business goals. Once we understand where your business needs to go, it's easier to create the roadmap to get you there.

The Business Value Matrix allows us to grasp the big picture of your business and establish baseline metrics to measure the success of your NetSuite solution.

Our team is made of the most experienced project managers, consultants and configuration experts in the NetSuite domain. Trajectory guarantees continuity from your implementation team to ongoing optimization and support to ensure your NetSuite solution delivers what your business needs.

Business Value Matrix

Our approach is built on the premise that your organization's people, processes and technology support the business and strategic objectives. Trajectory's Business Value Matrix isolates your company's business and strategic goals to provide a NetSuite solution that creates real business value.

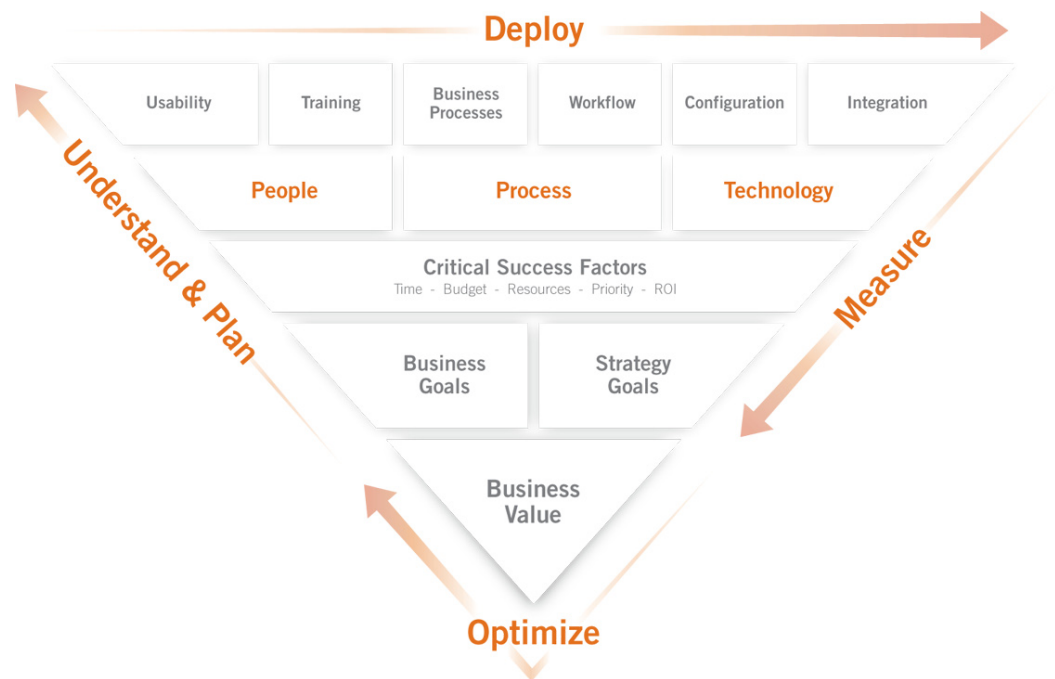

To understand the big picture, our business analysts and solution consultants use discovery sessions and surveys to create a custom Business Value Matrix. We then consider each business need in comparison with the processes and technical requirements to identify the highest-value project blueprint.

A blueprint with prioritized business needs ensures the lowest delivery cost and fastest time to utility.

Metrics

You need your NetSuite solution to deliver real business value. Your solution needs real metrics. Once we establish business goals, Trajectory builds metrics to reflect your organization's criteria for success. We can easily see where the NetSuite solution is delivering real value and make improvements where required.

Because Trajectory's promise to our clients is, "Success, period," our approach to implementing a NetSuite solution can't rely on technology alone. Plugging the gaps left by your legacy systems won't deliver the results your business needs. Instead, Trajectory focuses on your goals, people and processes to deliver valuable solutions across your organization.
